Awards Presented At Chamber Dinner

Two local people were honored by the Andover Chamber of Commerce at the annual dinner meeting held at Valle's Steak House Tuesday night.

Archibald D. MacLaren, a former president of the Chamber was given the President's award in recognition for his service to the organization.

Mrs. Virginia Hammond was presented the Community Service award, given to a non-member whose contributions to the community have been considered meritorious.

Close to 300 were in attendance for the dinner and program which featured an address by Thomas E. Singer, president of Gillette Toilettries, Andover's newest industry.

Glenn F. Harvey, district manager of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce, was master of ceremonies.

Atty Thomas W. Tavenner, president of the Andover Chamber in making the presentation to MacLaren noted the contribution made by the recipient over the past several years, and particularly this past year working on the organization's parking program.

Mrs. Hammond was honored for her work with the Conservation Commission. Atty. Tavenner commented on the countless voluntary hours spent by Mrs. Hammond in her work for the conservation group and also of her work with the planning board of which she was once a member.

Mr. Singer told the group that his firm was happy to be a part of the Andover community. He then described the process of creating new products at the firm. He said that the general public is brought in on the matter, in that persons are asked about various products already on the market, as well as new ones about to be introduced.

Atty. Tavenner, as president, gave the annual report.

FRIDAY & SATURDAY

On The Sidewalks Of Andover

Downtown Andover will take on a carnival atmosphere Friday and Saturday as the annual Sidewalk bazaar days will be observed.

The downtown area will be cut off from traffic and amusements, booths and bargains will be offered to those who peruse the annual affair sponsored by the Andover Chamber of Commerce.

Several religious, fraternal and civic organizations will be offering items at various booths throughout the downtown area.

The event will take on an international theme this year. Each participating store and booth will offer something of an international motif.

A costume and doll carriage parade is scheduled for children under 12 years of age beginning Saturday at 10:45 a.m.

It is expected that many will throng the downtown area to take advantage of the offerings of the several booths, the food offerings of various organizations, and the amusement rides available for the youngsters.

In addition the participating stores will be presenting items at Local officials have issued a warning to youngsters who have been jumping off the railings of the Andover street bridge in Ballardvale.

The bridge was reconstructed several years ago and there are still a considerable pile of rocks and steel rods which were not removed after completion of construction.

Officials fear serious injury to youngsters diving in for a swim, due to the materials still remaining there.

bargain prices making the traditional carnival even more inviting.

Participating organizations include: Alpha Phi Chi, hot dogs, baked beans, cold drinks, fence area between Hill's and Savings bank.

FinCom Is Blocked By Counsel Rule

Town Council Fredric J. O'Brien has ruled that the Finance committee members cannot examine departmental accounts or meet with department heads, as originally planned by the watchdog group.

The FinCom had announced its intent to look into matters during the year, subcommittees or members being assigned to review various departments.

When some complaints relative to the matter were presented to the selectmen, the board asked town counsel for a ruling.

This week, Atty. O'Brien ruled that department heads are responsible to the manager, and that as

No Danger Yet

Record Water Use During Hot Spell

Despite a record draw on the water supply last Friday, there is no apparent need to place any restrictions on water use, here according to Water Supt. Donald C. Bassett.

Haggett's pond, the town's main water supply is down about a foot compared to the level of a year ago, the superintendent said, but added he is not worried about the supply immediately.

Friday, a hot and humid day, the town pumped 5,750,000 gallons of water. The pumps were going constantly for 24 hours, Bassett said.

Many communities are already faced with water crisis and restrictions have been placed on usage.

That Andover is not in immediate danger of restrictions, is due to the actions taken by town meetings of the past several years.

Among the advantages that have come from such actions is the new 6,000,000 gallon reservoir off Bancroft road, which was filled this past year.

Bassett noted with that storage, the town has been able to meet the demand and also have ample storage.

Also on the plus side, is the Fish Brook project which captures water at the brook's terminus at the Merrimack River and pumps it back into Haggett's pond. This takes place principally during the spring thaw and run-off period and increases the level of the town's main reservoir.

Bassett noted that there would be some discoloration in the water during the current period due principally to the heavy draw. The constant flow of water through the pipes is causing some of the rust in the pipes to come loose, thus the current problem.

The situation Friday and subsequent hot weather days in which there has been heavy water usage, points out the need for increased pumping facilities, Bassett noted.

He said with the increased growth of the town and the increased number of water lines, additional pumping facilities will be needed, in order to meet the demand.

The season comes to a close next week with the climatic game between the Red Sox (10 and 3) and the Twins (11 and 2). When you read this the game will be history and we will either have a tie or a champion. But let's review last week.

The league leading Twins, again paced by the Verette brothers, continued their winning ways. Mark Hewitt and Rod Stedman contributed their heavy bats. Pete Reilly and Dave Rosenberg checked in with key RBI. Red Sox leaders, as they garnered their ninth straight win, were Ken Loffredo and Steve Ketzler both hitting and pitching. Dave Walker and Labeed Abboud as heavy hitters and John Shaw on defense.

Two games were extra inning affairs. Yankee fans cheered as Bill Deluca hit a bases loaded single and Jay Doherty relieved Gregg Mizzell to pick up the win. T. J. Stemans sparked at short stop as he snuffed out a Tiger threat in the seventh. It was a tough loss for the Tigers, as they tied it in the sixth with Bud Fichera hitting a triple. In the other game the White Sox just edged the Indians. In the sixth, Tom Henderson bunted to get on and then raced around to tie the score. Steve Hillman went six innings and allowed only three hits. Harry Collins continued to hit his specialty, a double. Bud Gildea pitched well in defeat and Jim Cox stroked a double.

In other games outstanding players were Isenberg and Mari-sola for the White Sox with extra base hits; Mike Goclowski getting his team's one hit to deprive the Verette's of a no-hitter, and that man Jim Cox again getting a key hit in the Red Sox game.

All in all a great week and a great season. The close race and great ball games are a tribute to League President Aaron Brody and his coaches, Paul McVey, Frank Monette, Lou Friedman, Charles Conlon, Jim Nicolosi and Chuck Dowling.

program "will attempt to create an environment conducive to the creative arts." President Howell said.

The students will live in the Coleman Farm House, located less than five miles from the campus. The farm was acquired by the College last year and will be rented to the students for the duration of the experiment.

Professor Thomas B. Cornell of the Bowdoin Art Department, who has worked with the students since the inception of their plan, said the program will attempt to "counteract the trend of colleges to turn out technicians and attempt to find a place for students with unusual interests to become involved."

"It means that the College is secure enough to find a place for the unusual personality," Professor Cornell said. "It takes confidence to serve the students with an open mind rather than to impose a preconceived educational form on them," he added.

Released from some of the usual college requirements, the students will take two courses at the College and two as independent study under faculty supervision. They must, however, meet the requirements of their major department when they become majors. The six students will be sophomores during the term of the program and will select their major fields at the end of their sophomore year, as is the custom at Bowdoin.

Their programs and performances will be supervised by the Recording Committee of the Faculty. The entire program will be reviewed and evaluated by the Curriculum and Educational Policy Committee next spring. At that time, a report and recommendations will be made to the faculty.

Describing the program as an "educational idea for the creative person," Professor Cornell said, "It gives me a good feeling about the College that it is giving this kind of person a chance to evolve in his own way. Even Socrates, the father of western philosophy, was a little paranoid about creative people."

While describing the advantages of the program, Professor Cornell said it will not be without its problems. Because it is a social as well as an educational experiment, the two aspects can easily become confused but must be examined separately if its true educational success is to be evaluated, he said.

There is also the danger, Professor Cornell added, that the six individuals entering the program may develop a group identity to the detriment of their individuality.

Despite the inherent difficulties in such a program, "the College must continue to be flexible enough to try this sort of experiment," President Howell said. If it proves successful, he added, "the College must have the wisdom and the courage to learn the lessons that have been taught."

John McKee, widely known for his photographic exhibition, "As Maine Goes—The Maine Coast and Its Despoilment," presented at Bowdoin in 1966, will serve as informal supervisor of the program. A former Bowdoin Faculty member, Mr. McKee will return as a Lecturer in the Department of Art during the 1969-70 academic year.

Andona Holds Annual Meeting

The annual dinner meeting of the Andona Society of Andover was held at the Lanam Club recently.

Annual reports were read describing the many projects undertaken during the year which enable Andona to further its aim to aid the youth of Andover in the areas of recreation, social development, and education. The success of the projects will make it possible for the society to provide, among other things, two scholarships for graduating seniors at Andover High school, a number of summer camps for local children, and additional equipment for the Andover branch of the Y.M.C.A.

Mrs. Wilfred J. Mackie, Jr., president, introduced Atty. James Eaton, III, who spoke briefly to the group. He was presented a gift in appreciation of his efforts in behalf of Andona.

Thirteen provisional members were welcomed into the society. They include Mrs. Robert Allison, Mrs. Sebastian Cavallaro, Mrs. Robert Finlayson, Mrs. Robert Fredrickson, Mrs. Frank Mathias, Mrs. Paul McVey, Mrs. Paul Moomjian, Mrs. Robert Muldoon, Mrs. John Reddington, Mrs. Thomas Scanlon, Mrs. John Tanner, Mrs. Robert Tassinari, and Mrs. Donald Vasconcelos.

Officers for the coming year will be: Mrs. Wilfred Mackie, president; Mrs. John Avery, vice president; Mrs. Clinton Seeley, secretary; Mrs. William Moulton, treasurer.

New board members include: Mrs. Francis Witt, ways and means; Mrs. Richard Secord, meetings; Mrs. Arthur Muldoon, public relations; Mrs. Rudolph Morin, civic; Mrs. David Erickson, membership; Mrs. David Starkweather, points; Mrs. William Bride, properties; Mrs. John Petty, nominations.

Although women worked in all occupations in 1968, the largest number (9.3 million) were employed in clerical jobs. About 4.3 million were service workers (excluding private household), 4.1 million were operatives, and 4.0 million were in professional and technical occupations.

Pick A Peck Of Litter

By Polly Bradley

Join the "pick a peck" campaign!

Next time you buy groceries to take on a camping or picnicking or fishing or swimming trip, save one grocery bag to "pick a peck" of litter at your destination. Not just your own litter (you'd pick that up anyway, I assume), but someone else's old litter.

No use just complaining about litter....for every angry thought about litterbugs, angrily toss a beer can into the bag.

The North American Family Campers Association, which is sponsoring the campaign, estimates that if every one of its members picked only one bag of litter each time they went camping, they would have collected 60 tons of litter by the end of the 1969 camping season.

Some families have even been keeping the kids profitably busy by running contests to see who could pick up the most bags of litter.

Just think of the quantities of litter that could be picked up this summer if all the rest of us would also "pick a peck."

Carnation Time Is Here

The popularity, importance and abundance of carnations grown in Massachusetts are responsible for a proclamation by Governor Francis W. Sargent of the period from June 15 through June 22 as "Carnation Time in Massachusetts."

Pointing out that Massachusetts is the birthplace of over 90 percent of the carnation varieties grown the world over, Governor Sargent declared that carnations played a significant role in the state's economy, accounting for fully ten percent of agricultural income. More than 40 million blooms are produced annually by Bay State greenhouse farmers, placing Massachusetts fourth among the 50 states.

In his proclamation, Governor Sargent paid tribute to "the flourishing horticultural genius of Massachusetts growers and scientists continuously engaged in the struggle to create the perfect carnation, a struggle which brings joy and satisfaction to the lives of millions."

The wide range of colors and types of carnations grown in Massachusetts includes standard and miniature size, in red, pink, white, lavender, variegated shades and so-called "novelty combinations" like tangerine-yellow. A new miniature has delicately feathered or "quilled" petals.

Benefit Golf Tourney Set At Indian Ridge Course

Indian Ridge Country Club will hold its first annual Hospital Open Golf Tournament Aug. 12-17 at its Andover course.

The tourney will be held for the benefit of Greater Boston and Merrimack Valley area hospitals. All proceeds will be divided among the participating hospitals, which include the Children's Hospital Medical Center, Lawrence General Hospital, Bon Secours Hospital in Methuen, the Malden Hospital, Memorial Hospital (Nashua, N. H.), Somerville Hospital, Waltham Hospital, Lowell General Hospital, St. Joseph's Hospital, Lowell, St. John's Hospital, Lowell; and others now in negotiation.

The Indian Ridge event is a satellite tourney, to be held the same week as the PGA Championship in Dayton, Ohio. Many of the top finishers at Indian Ridge will be playing in the AVCO Open to be held the following week in Sutton.

The Hospital Open is planned along the lines of golfdom's richest tourney, the Westchester Classic. Indian Ridge, although starting with a modest $40,000 purse, hopes to grow in size along the lines of Westchester, including TV sponsorship.

In addition, the Andover Club plans to attract numerous top ranking professionals and amateurs who are not eligible for PGA competition, including many foreign stars.

Hospital Open festivities will get underway Monday, Aug. 11, with the qualifying round and practice. Tuesday will feature a driving contest, clinic and practice rounds. Wednesday, Aug. 13, a Pro-Am Celebrity Event, featuring many local and national sports and entertainment figures will be held, followed by a banquet in the evening.

The tourney's first round will get underway Aug. 14. Friday, Aug. 15, the second round will be held, with the top 50 (plus ties) qualifying for the final 36 holes. The third and fourth rounds will take place on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 16 and 17, with the winner taking home the lion's share of $40,000.

In the past, Indian Ridge has staged local tournaments or exhibitions for the benefit of the hospitals, but officials this year are expanding the program for the greater benefit of the participating hospitals.

such the FinCom could not examine accounts or meet with department heads.

In his ruling, counsel pointed out that under the town manager charter, departments, as such, do not exist in Andover. The charter provides that the manager can create or abolish departments.

Department heads are to submit an estimated budget to the manager each year, according to the charter, counsel said.

The FinCom, in its decision to visit departments during the year, did so with the thought of becoming more familiar with the processes and the necessary expenditures, according to its original decision.

What action will be taken now by the watchdog group remains to be seen.

INCOMING SUPERINTENDENT Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, right, discusses Andover schools with outgoing superintendent Edward I. Erickson, in the superintendent's office Wednesday.

Long Range Plan Aim Of Seifert

A long range educational plan for Andover schools, worked out with administrators, teachers and the school committee, will be a very important part of incoming Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert's job the first year.

Dr. Seifert, visiting Andover to talk with school personnel and to househunt, told the TOWNSMAN this on Wednesday, and emphasized that the pay off of education, as far as he was concerned, was the interaction between teacher and student.

He said teachers needed the support of the community, and of the school administration, which should involve them in areas of their own expertise and back their efforts.

Right behind the interaction of teachers and students, in Seifert's mind, must be interaction of teachers and administration, characterized by open dialogue. It's his style of operating, Seifert told the TOWNSMAN, to keep himself in as frequent contact as possible with all the schools, so he understands what's going on inside them.

Seifert arrived in Andover at 2 a.m. Wednesday morning, relieving the doubts of Superintendent Erickson who had learned that a plane flying from the west coast at about that time had been hijacked to Cuba.

Seifert spent Wednesday in the superintendent's office and with administration officials. Today and part of tomorrow he will face the hard facts of life about finding a house in Andover. Before he leaves, Seifert will look over the educational specifications which the New England School Development Council has prepared for additions to the West Junior High and the senior high school.

Weaver Named

Arthur G. Weaver of Andover, vice president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company since 1966, has been elected a vice president of Morgan Memorial, Inc., of Boston.

Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries is the largest non-profit and non-sectarian agency in New England serving handicapped and disadvantaged people.

Weaver is widely known in New England business circles and in the insurance field. He is a Fellow in the Society of Actuaries, a member of the Actuaries Club of Boston and the International Congress of Actuaries. He is also a consultant to the Surgeon General on the U. S. National Health Survey.

He has been a member of the board of directors of Morgan Memorial for many years. He is also a member of the United Community Services Rehabilitation Council and the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Planning commission.

Weaver entered the Hancock Company as director of group research in 1949 and later served as associate group actuary prior to his election as second vice president in 1957.

He received his B. A. Degree in mathematics from McGill University, studied at McGill Graduate School of Insurance Administration and attended the advanced management program at Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration and the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies.

Prior to joining the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, he served in the actuarial department of the Prudential Assurance Co. of London, in Montreal, and was also associated with the Montreal Life Insurance Co.

A flight lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Air Force during World War II, Weaver served in the Atlantic and Pacific Theatres.

He is married to the former Melba Trombley. The couple have two sons, David Roy and Arthur Bruce Weaver.

In A Word...

Crystal

Chemists can crystallize a wide variety of drugs and chemicals. Originally, however, the word "crystal" was applied only to crystals of frost or ice. That is how the word came into being—from the Greek word kryos which means frost.

The term has been used in the English language for about 1,000 years. Its meaning has been expanded to include substance in crystalline form.

Final Assembly For Junior Highs

Principals Dorothy Partridge and William Hart have announced that the ninth grade classes of the East and West Junior High will have their final assemblies of the year, and in their respective schools, on Tuesday morning, June 24.

East Junior High will hold its assembly starting at 9 a.m. and the West Junior High assembly will begin at 10:15 a.m., in the auditorium of each school.

Boats To Be Removed

Boats not registered with the water department for Haggett's pond, will be removed, according to Water Supt. Donald C. Bassett.

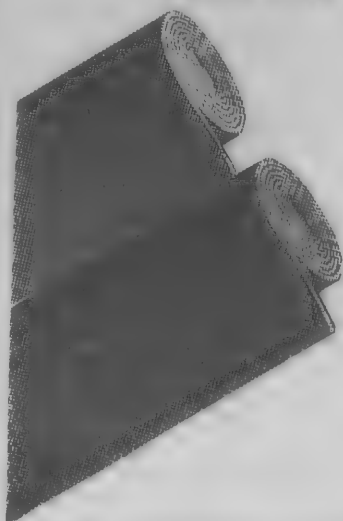

Several boats have been observed on the pond without registration plates and there has been some vandalism, according to the superintendent.

Get rid of paints and thinners as soon as you are finished with them. Keeping them around too long could lead to an explosive situation if they are not handled properly.

The hairdo of today is one that's neat, requires no supervision, and makes you look marvelous. A reliable one that won't let you down. This means reasonably short or else anchored down. Whether you're a working girl rushing off to work in the morning or a housewife who doesn't have time to fuss with herself all the time, a self-starter hairdo that needs only the flick of a brush is in order. The new hairdo is the small, neat hairdo. If you have long hair and pull it back so that it becomes strict rather than soft, add a fluffy scarf or cut guiches. But no designed look for the feminine woman of today!

Individualized styling is available at CAPELO HAIR STYLISTS, 2 Riverina Rd., Shawsheen-Andover. Tel. 475-1639. Open 9-6, Fri. 9-8. Sale of wigs, wiglets and falls. Ample Parking. Relax in pleasant surroundings.

Audio-Visual Awards Made To Junior High Students

The annual audio-visual awards were made Tuesday, June 17, at both East and West Junior High schools. The awards are made to those students who have successfully completed the course in 16mm sound projector operation. The East Junior High awards are also for projection booth operation skills as well as projector operation.

The awards are made through the courtesy of Bell and Howell and their representative Paul Cameron of New England Film Service, Inc. Mr. Cameron and Audio-Visual Director Robert W. Bachmann made the awards to both schools. Each student was given a certificate of proficiency, a projectionists card and lapel pin. Certification provides the student with the opportunity to apply this knowledge in community activities.

The program of audio-visual instruction was begun 13 years ago by Mr. Bachmann and has provided training for close to 1,000 boys and girls. Some students have been influenced to follow related careers. The tremendous aid that these trained students provide to school, community and private organizations is difficult to measure.

It is notable, however, that few school activities are held that are not aided by audio-visual trained students, and that all programs held within the schools by outside organizations are assisted by this audio-visual task force.

Mr. Bachmann, a professional in electronics and photography as well as an educator, has planned the course of instruction along this professional attitude line. The A.V. students are not part of a "club" but rather a service organization. Training is carried on as an applied science course containing lectures, demonstrations, films, and practical laboratory experience.

The students receiving certification this year are:

West Junior High school - J. Abugov, J. Adams, J. Auchterlonie, S. Clark, T. Copeland, J. Demanche, R. Dube, D. Fournier, E. Frederick, V. Hall, S. Lawson, D. Lockwood, J. Robinton, F. Sherman.

East Junior High school - R. Anderson, T. Appleton, R. Bedell, F. Caffrey, D. Cheyette, P. Crossan, R. Cushing, W. Deacon, D. Ford, G. Fuller, P. Fuller, C. Galbiati, R. Gallant, B. Gaynor, M. Hanlon, W. Haskell, P. Haywood, J. Hilton, J. Juarez, T. King, J. Lee, P. Noury, J. O'Neil, D. Pagonis, G. Redman, R. Smith, R. Swain, J. VanSchalkwyk.

VIBRANT AND VIBRATING is PA graduate Gary Rieveschl's "Spring Patch," in Addison Gallery exhibit of seven alumni artists. Each rod of the man-sized steel sculpture is set in a spring, and a light touch sets them swaying like a patch of weeds in the wind.

Activated Sculpture Vibrates At Addison

The sculpture is activated upstairs in the Addison Art Gallery, where a light touch sets the spring-based members of piece like "Spring Patch," above, quivering and swaying. Their rhythms affect one another, and create new rhythms, which are constantly changing.

Gary Rieveschl's metal spring sculpture has something of the air effect of a Calder mobile, but it's upside down; instead of hanging from the ceiling down into the air, it springs from a solid base on the floor.

Rieveschl, a 1961 graduate of Phillips Academy is the youngest of four PA alumni whose works from the exhibition "Seven Decades," and will be on display at the Addison Gallery until July 6.

Besides Rieveschl's spring sculpture, and his other electronic sculptures involving electronics and even fire, there are other novel art forms, such as the environmental boxes of Joseph Cornell.

For visitors whose first love is painting, the works of Waldo Pierce, John McLaughlin, Cleve Gray, Frank Stella and Robert Jordan offer a variety of technique and philosophy.

Downstairs, two rooms of student work prove that variety marks the work of Phillips Academy student artists as well. Electronic wooden and wire sculpture share this exhibit with paintings and inventive games. At the entrance to the student exhibit, which will be on display all summer, stands a wood and metal screen sculpture, the work of Mark Lerner, Phillips Academy senior who died on a mountain climbing expedition in the White Mountains during the winter term.

Kaczynski Receives B.A. Degree

Ronald Charles Kaczynski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Kaczynski of 79 Lowell Junction Road, was among the 300 seniors awarded bachelor of arts degrees at the 148th commencement of Amherst College. Kaczynski majored in American studies.

A 1965 graduate of Andover High school, Kaczynski received four varsity letters in spring and winter track. He also received freshman numerals in these two sports and in football.

He was a member of Delta Upsilon Fraternity. Kaczynski plans to attend Boston College Law School in September.

The home is becoming an increasingly attractive target for burglars. While businesses have employed watchmen, watchdogs and highly intricate alarm devices, many homeowners don't even bother to lock their doors when they go out.

What's To Do This Summer?

By Helen M. Eccles

What's there for teenagers to do in Andover, now that school is out?

The Curious Citizen wonders, and finds it makes a big difference whether you're talking about the weekdays, or the weekends.

The consensus: there's plenty to do during the week, more than any summer before in the evenings, if young people will just get off their tails and indicate interest; but on weekends, Andover can be Disasterville to teenagers who do not have the luxuries of wheels and plenty of cash.

First weekdays. A flexible rejuvenated summer school program, tailored to student suggestions, open to junior high schoolers and adults too, will operate daily in the mornings, and Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The Student Activity Center will be open Tuesday through Thursday evenings, and will run tennis and soccer league play Monday through Thursday evenings. IF ENOUGH PEOPLE APPLY.

Remember, you worn-out scholars and athletes, you may have had it with organized activities today, June 19, but it will be different in mid-July!

The trouble is, about the automotive course and hot rod club, that summer theatre workshop with a crackerjack teacher from Nashua, that evening introductory psychology course - each teacher cannot be hired and each of these courses will die on the vine in June, unless a certain minimum number of people sign up to participate. The same goes for creative writing, tennis lessons and Latin I in the morning.

This is the last week for summer school applications. If you don't sign up now, you will have blown it for the summer.

Call or see James Murphy, director of the secondary summer session, at the high school. For the Student Activity Center, see James Carroll, same place.

The morning and evening summer school plus the SAC indoor and outdoor recreational program, with dances scheduled on most Wednesday evenings, should combine to make the high school a lively place for young people. The Summer School runs from June 30 until August 8 and so does SAC.

The drama workshop has school committee permission to use the Central School auditorium and stage for a meeting and workshop three nights a week. Summer School director Murphy told the TOWNSMAN the drama coach he tentatively hired owns a wardrobe of costumes and a wealth of experience in dramatics and teaching. She began as a tutor in the Averell Harriman family, ex-governor of New York, and Paris negotiator with Hanoi under the Johnson administration.

Murphy said she has ideas for performances of all sorts of plays, one-acters, longer plays, and the writing and acting of original plays. So far, said Murphy, two people have signed up. The workshop is open to all teenagers and adults - but there won't be any workshop at all, unless more people interested in acting, set design, publicity etc. sign up in the next few days.

Murphy said that 50 or 60 boys had indicated an interest in an automotive course, but not one signed up. The Curious Citizen notes that the parking lot behind the industrial arts center would be an ideal place to take apart and put together old cars. Leslie Bartow notes that he would support the idea of a hot rod club. Another summer school evening course that will go under, without sign-up, is an introduction to psychology, which a Merrimack College professor has offered to teach - anyone interested in a birdseye view of how the human brain operates and emotions? - On the other hand, Murphy said he wanted to put out a call for help for a teacher for the speedwriting class, which has plenty of applicants, many of them adults, but no teacher. Anyone know someone who uses speedwriting, and would like a job two nights a week?

SAC Director James Carroll has his tennis and soccer leagues ready to go too. All they need is warm bodies. Sign up on weekday evenings, starting tonight at 6 p.m.

The recreation department reminds parents and teenagers that activities are available, but involvement and participation are a must. Both Leslie Bartow and James Carroll pointed out that there is a lot of apathy - illustrated so well by Murphy's experience with the automotive class.

Bartow points out to parents that young people's involvement in constructive activities is not born, it's made, by parent interest, support and participation.

Bartow also said that there are opportunities for teenage participation in community service; he knows the Red Cross could use girls, and he said that boys could be a help in playground supervision of younger children. If young people are interested, said Bartow, and will be good as volunteers for a week, he'll put up to half a dozen on the payroll after that. If interest in automotive work develops, adults who are willing to make it a more than one-shot effort, would be welcome in that program.

The problem of weekends remains; and the adult advisory group of SAC is also interested in the idea of a downtown meeting place for young people, and supplement to SAC, a supervised leisure-time meeting place for teenagers.

The TOWNSMAN wondered if Danton Realty's Playhouse could be available for youngsters to clean up, fix up and use over the summer. Phidias Dantos said that the Playhouse was already committed to a client and was being renovated for office use now. He supported the idea of a store-front type meeting place, if it had good adult supervision, and told the TOWNSMAN he would follow this up with at least $100 if the plan materialized.

Maybe one of the downtown churches has facilities which could be used?

Perhaps a combination of local adult support will spark some teenage initiative to provide Andover with a downtown recreational which combines adult supervision with young people's leadership and labor.

A real weekend need in Andover is movies, moderately priced. The TOWNSMAN checked with the Phillips Academy Summer Session, which has already ordered 35mm entertainment films to show to its secondary schoolers on Saturday nights. Is there any possibility of tying in at moderate cost, to show these movies to SAC members at the high school?

PA Summer Session Director Dr. Ronald Minne said that the PA Summer Session would be happy to cooperate with the town, if certain technical and contract arrangements which the PA Audio-Visual Department must observe with the lessors and distributors.

Use of the 35mm film would require transportation to and from the academy, a booth, a licensed operator, and last, but not least, a 35mm projector. There are 35mm projectors in town, the TOWNSMAN has discovered. It's a very "iffy" matter, and along with everything else it depends on how much real interest the movies would generate. But it's a possibility, and PA is interested to help.

So there are various possibilities, even for summer weekends at Andover. Whether they materialize or not depends a great deal on whether young people and their families feel they are needed, and, if so, whether young people and their families are willing to interest and involve themselves.

The busy Recreation Department is not going to serve it up on a silver platter.

Pardon us for carping on a tired subject, but anybody likes a choice. Fishermen will tell you even the finny tribe wants variety. And we think people deserve better than that!

Editorial Comment

Unfortunate Decision

Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien has given the opinion that members of the Finance Committee assigned to town department heads, is in violation of the Town Manager Charter.

The opinion results in an unfortunate decision.

We do not quarrel with counsel's opinion. He is relied upon to protect the town in all legal matters.

What we regret is that a dedicated group of men have been denied the opportunity to assist the town in examining its annual municipal expense.

The FinCom early this year decided to assign members to assist department heads.

Town counsel finds this in violation of the charter, since under provisions of the operation of Andover's municipal government all matters deal directly with the town manager. There are in effect no departments, so-called. They can be created or abolished by the manager, counsel rules.

The FinCom, we think, had good intentions.

The thought in appointing members to assist department heads, was purely in the realm of their non-paid, appointed duties, that of being a watchdog agency.

The men were making themselves available to examine accounts, projects, and in general see if savings could be realized in some areas.

It was only last year that some town departments went out and spent their entire budget. Some department heads were told to do so, and the budget resulted in deficit, and the expenditures for the year ahead spiraled.

Possibly FinCom members' examination over the year, a periodic discussion, may have eliminated such a problem.

We do not feel the FinCom intent was not one of being probing or meddling, but simply an effort to keep an eye on the town's finances.

As municipal costs continue to rise, we think their efforts were exemplary.

Department heads and the town manager could indeed use a voluntary hand, here and there, to aid them, as costs continue to go up.

We reiterate that we shall not quarrel with the town counsel's opinion. His legal knowledge is far superior, and we trust his advice to the FinCom and the selectmen is completely legal.

But, we do feel that the decision is unfortunate.

Probably that committee which studied the charter several years ago, and made recommendations, yet to be implemented, should be activated and this time strive for positive action.

Fluoride

Fluoride is a most controversial chemical.

It has been injected into the Andover water system, much to the chagrin of many residents, much to the pleasure of others.

The decision was made by the board of health.

We shall not take a stand of approving or disapproving of the action.

Facts firmly attributable by both sides are being presented to the public.

Apparently the issue will reach the ballot for a decision by the entire townspeople.

This, we think, is wise.

There are salient arguments on both sides concerning the chemical in the water.

Proper, mature debate between now and election time can only result in a proper decision at the ballot box.

There is a move afoot to place the matter of prayer in school on the ballot on the national level. This is another controversial issue.

Only through proper democratic process, can the will of the people be known.

All issues require unemotional thought which we hope would accompany any ballot box decision on the fluoride issue.

Fun Days

Friday and Saturday will be Andover's traditional fun days.

They are referred to as Sidewalk Bazaar Days, but they carry with it the fun of getting together in good fellowship in the downtown area, not only for those of us in Andover but for those in surrounding communities.

There are those who look upon the event as a business promotion. It is that, but it is something more.

It is the getting together of families in the downtown area, meeting new friends, making acquaintances with old, and patronizing worthy civic fraternal and church organizations, all having a charitable purpose.

There is something downtown for all Friday and Saturday.

There will be the parade of the nations, the booths, the bargains.

A little something for everybody.

Andover was a leader in this type of activity.

Organized for the first time several years ago, the idea, born in Andover, quickly caught on in surrounding communities.

It is a popular event which should command the attention of Andover residents and those around us.

KEEP OFF

By W. A. Leavell, Ph. D.

Every now and then I get the idea that our glorious leaders in Washington take us ordinary voters for down right idiots. No doubt you have shared this feeling yourself. It isn't hard to come by such thoughts today.

Just when I am about to let such thinking set in and become a firm opinion. I find out that those dear people who manage, mis-manage and mangle our every action think we are down right geniuses.

Take for instance the federal income tax allowance of $600 a year to feed, clothe, house and train a youngster. Good old big brother tells us he is so benevolent and generous that we can take this credit and do something he can't come close to doing. This must mean he thinks we are smarter than the government.

In the Federal Job Corps, Uncle Sam spends about $7,000 a year for each youngster. Since the Job Corps has more problems per youngster than any family I know, I can't believe they do a better job. This must mean that the tax people think parents are $6,000 a year smarter than the Job Corps.

The Federal government has a Cuban refugee program. Uncle Sam figures it cost a minimum of about $1,200 a year for every Cuban boy and girl. This is of course if they don't go to school. If they want an education, that is another $1,000 a year. That amounts to a total of $2,200 for the refugee child, on something less than the American way of life standards. That is still $1,600 more than allowed for the average citizen's child.

In the austere environs of the Federal prison system Uncle Sam has a cost of about $2,300 a year per person. This cost doesn't cover anything like what the average family has to spend on its youngsters. This means parents are $1,700 smarter than the prison system.

Under the Social Security program Uncle Sam figures to pay out about $168 per month to maintain the elderly. Since they expect us to do all sorts of things for our children on an average of only $50 a month, parents must be at least $118 a month per child smarter than Social Security.

The VISTA program (Volunteers in Service To America) spent $3,100,000 last year to train only 202 trainees. That comes out to about $15,000 per youth per year. That makes the $600 a year parents are allowed seem mighty short.

Just in case some of our Washington flock feel the care and feeding of youngsters in cheaper by the dozen, let take a look at what it cost the military. Without any frills, Uncle Sam figures it cost $55.10 a month to house, $30.27 a month to feed, $4.20 for clothing upkeep; for each soldier. That comes to $1,074.84 a year. Even on such a large scale that beats the $600 they allow parents.

Uncle Sam must think parents are mighty smart to do what they can't for so much less. Yes sir, those smart parents can do all the things a youngster needs for only $600 and the government can't come close to that.

They might have something at that. With all our expenses, we have, as individuals, managed to put aside more than enough savings to offset the great national debt our glorious leaders have run up.

Poor old Uncle Sam. With all our prosperity and heavy taxes, the government today spends more than $2,900,000,000 (that is 2.9 BILLION) more per year on relief than it did during the depths of the great depression.

The more I think about it, it might not be that those fruit cakes in Washington think we are smart at all. It could be they know what it takes to bring up a future taxpayer and just want to short change parents.

It could be that old Uncle Sam has a different set of standards than ordinary folks. Take for example the fact that under the federal ADC program they will pay more than $800 a year to keep up an illegitimate child. They only allow me $600 for my legitimate child. If that is the way they figure, I would have been better off to have saved my $2 wedding license fee.

It looks to me as if the VISTA program, with a cost of $15,000 per youngster has about the right figure. I think I will claim that amount rather than the $600 Uncle Sam allows. If they come get me, I won't have to pay any tax and they will spend more on my family than I make now so I can't lose.

Please Uncle Sam, don't think I am so smart. I can't afford it!

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN

I take issue with the sentiment in favor of a lengthened school year that is current among some School Committee members and parents. It's true that out school calendar originated in the context of an agricultural economy that no longer predominates, but this fact doesn't necessarily cancel the value of our present distribution of vacation days. Actually, I think it's very fortunate that our system has evolved as it has. The three week-long vacations allow much-needed time for recreation and reflection on the part of students and teachers alike. It makes little difference whether these weeks are divided into two vacations at Christmastime and March, or three, as is now the case.

Most important, summer vacation offers school-age youngsters who no longer need to work on farms an extended block of time in which to pursue their own interests within a context of their own or their parent's choosing; they can gain new experiences and try out new skills on a job, at a camp, at summer school, on a trip, or simply by themselves at home.

In an age where organized pressures have enormously increased, it's more essential than ever to allow children the scope to become self-generating people who are not overly dependent for their education on formal learning situations. The young people in trouble today are often those who have not learned the self-discipline that I feel can best be learned from having to cope with a balance of required activity and activity initiated by free choice.

When school officials ask for more and more formal school time, they are unwittingly encouraging the passivity of parents who are reluctant to assume major responsibility for their children's upbringing, or who feel overcome by the educational demands of an increasingly complex society. They are discouraging the healthy proliferation of private and public certainly every child should have the opportunity for an organized summer experience. Scholarships and camperships should be abundantly available for all families who need them. Funds for these could be possible accumulated through rental of school facilities for private summer programs. At times, a school-assigned summer research or service project may be an appropriate requirement for some individuals. A year-round work-study program could benefit both college-bound and terminal students who chose to take advantage of it. Public school personnel can be more involved in helping students make productive summer plans without dominating the scene.

Finally, more hours in the school day, more days in the school year will cost more money. Our tax dollars should go to support our School Committee's excellent current plans for improving the quality, not the quantity, of formal education.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
Sickness has become a built-in, expanding and rising cost of government. That, in turn, is more cause of rising taxes.

The government, in combating causes of poor health generally is directing attention to the dangers of smoking.

The essential public school is, among other things, a means for supporting the purposes and programs of government; local, state and Federal.

It follows then that smoking by teachers and all other school employees in school buildings and on school property is a glaring contradiction of a government program for improving the welfare of the young. It might also be some more of the cause of the young being against discipline.

Example being by itself an effective teacher and, good example being a characteristic of an educated person, in this instance it being a willingness to accept discipline for the good of the community, it is suggested that Andover's school system accept the opportunity to show its devotion to good example by fixing a rule that requires no smoking by all school employees in school buildings and on all other school property at any time.

Memorial Hall Library

Mexican Exhibit

A fine collection of ancient Mexican artifacts, many dated before the time of Christ, are on loan to the library by a college student, David Tinker, Nutmeg Lane.

Most of the articles are made of a low fired ceramic. The figurines and ceramic heads were found by the collector in a cornfield where they had been placed to increase the fertility of the soil and the size of the crops. Some of the items were purchased from peddlers and may be clever fakes. Some very old arrow points are included in the exhibit.

Dr. Richard S. MacNeilsh of the Museum of Archeology of Phillips Academy gave estimated dates and other information about the articles. The collection will be on display in the main library for the next two weeks.

Chess, Checkers

A chess set and a game of checkers have been recently placed in the Listening Room at Memorial Hall Library. Patrons are welcome to play these games and enjoy their leisure there.

Golf

Attendance at golf courses in this area has boomed with the coming of warm weather. And pleasant, sunny days have also brought a sharp increase in interest at the Memorial Hall Library in books on golf, according to librarian Mrs. Bea Shepherd.

Numerous manuals written by the country's outstanding professional golfers are available. Some of the recent titles include "Take a Tip From Me," by Jack Nicklaus; "Gay Brewer Shows You How To Score Better Than You Swing," by Gay Brewer; "Tommy Armour's ABC's of Golf," by Tommy Armour; "All Weather Golf," by Wes Ellis; "Golf Secrets," by Gary Player; "How to Hit a Golf Ball Straight," by Ike S. Handy; "My Game and Yours," by Arnold Palmer; and "Golf Power in Motion," by Robert McGuin.

Life-stories of famous golfers, also requested frequently, are Jack Nicklaus' "The Greatest Game of All: My Life in Golf," Walter Hagen's "The Walter Hagen Story," and Bobby Jones' "Golf is My Game."

The history of golf is covered in "The Encyclopedia of Golf," by Neolin H. Gibson and "The Story of American Golf," by Herbert W. Wind.

Interesting golf anecdotes are told in George Plimpton's "The Bogey Man."

Modern Mowers

Starting a power mower is easier when it is done with a rechargeable nickel-cadmium battery-powered ignition system. A built-in generator recharges the battery while the motor is running.

Mrs. Robert D. Gallivan

Gallivan - Guild

Miss Sally Ann Guild, daughter of Mrs. and the late Mr. John Bernhardt Guild, 41 Chandler Circle, was married on Saturday, June 14 to Robert D. Gallivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gallivan, Hartford Conn.

The Rev. Paul Keyes and the Rev. J. Edison Pike officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony in St. Robert Bellarmine Church, and Frank J. Burgess gave his niece away in marriage.

The bride wore a straight gown of white crepe and Venice lace, an Empire bodice with a sabrina neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The sleeves, bodice and flowing panel in the back were enhanced with Venice lace. A short silk illusion veil flowed from a pill-box covered with matching lace, and she carried yellow and white daisies.

Mrs. Daniel Geiger, the bride's matron of honor, and her bridesmaid, Miss Jeannie Guild, wore floor-length sleeveless gowns of maize silk organza, fashioned with Empire bodice and sheath skirts. The cowl neck and hemline of each was enhanced with re-embroidered embroidery, and the attendants wore matching bows with short silk illusion veiling.

Brendan Burke of Hartford served Mr. Gallivan as best man, and Timothy Graham of Quincy and William Fitzgerald of Needham were ushers.

A reception was held at the bride's home after the wedding. Mrs. Guild wore a celadon green silk shantung princess A-line with beaded collar and matching accessories, while the bridegroom's mother wore a pale gold silk and worsted gown with a beaded mandarin collar, matching whimsy and accessories.

After a wedding trip to Cape Cod, the couple will make their home at 38 Keyes Drive, Peabody.

The former Miss Guild graduated from Andover High school and the Chandler School for Women in Boston. Mr. Gallivan is a graduate of the Northwest Catholic High school in Hartford, and Boston College. He is a stockbroker trainee with Reynolds & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange.

THERAPEUTIC CARPENTER Jim Feinberg watches Elisa Kahan enjoy going hand over hand on the play equipment which will help her brain and muscle coordination.

High School Youth Creates Device To Aid Youngster

An Andover High school student answered the TOWNSMAN's appeal for volunteer therapist for three year old Elisa Kahan a month or so ago. Since then, James Feinberg not only has "patterned" Elisa for three quarters of an hour every Saturday morning, but has developed and constructed a large therapeutic device to speed her recovery from brain damage.

Jim, the son of Robert M. Feinberg, 50 Chestnut St., said that he and his dad decided to become Saturday morning volunteers when they read the TOWNSMAN's appeal for more volunteers for the patterning sessions. The Center for Development of Human Potential said this therapy was Elisa's only hope for recovery of all her faculties.

Later on, Jim learned that the doctors who direct the child's recovery program felt that a device for hand-over-hand exercise would aid brain and muscle coordination.

The high school junior thought he could do something about this. Andover High School's industrial arts department offers its facilities to all students, whether they take courses or not, and the wood shop afforded the space and proper tools.

Jim converted the doctors' rather complicated metal-and-wood plan into an all-wood ladder-like device, 10 feet long, with an adjustable height of three to five feet. The project took shape in the wood shop, where he finished it before the end of school. Last weekend, he presented it to Elisa, she enjoys it as a challenging plaything, and unconsciously is developing coordination by traversing it hand over hand, monkey-style.

Mrs. David Kahan, Elisa's mother, is delighted, and told the TOWNSMAN she is grateful for both Jim's handiwork and the hours which he, his father, and his brother Richard, have volunteered along with the many other people who have helped Elisa.

The patterning which doctors say can end on July 25, has brought real progress. Volunteers like the Feinbergs have been able to perceive it; progress seems more pronounced to the volunteers who have been patterning Elisa since last fall, when the Kahans first appealed for volunteers with the TOWNSMAN's help. Jim Feinberg suggests, and Mrs. Kahan agrees, that "if anyone wants to help through July 25, a few more volunteers would be a help, yes."

At the end of July, Elisa will take a trip to England with her parents, and will be able to be a little bridesmaid in her uncle's wedding. When she returns home, Jim Feinberg's ladder-walking device will go into the Kahan's back yard, where it will serve as therapy toy, and as play equipment for Elisa and her neighbors. Mrs. Kahan tells the TOWNSMAN that Jim is working on another device to help Elisa be ready for school in September.

In September, Elisa will be able to go to a regular nursery school, with other children.

A heart warming success story, whose main ingredient is, people willing to help.

Awarded Degree Of Master Of Theology

Rev. George P. Lawless

On Wednesday, June 4, Princeton Theological Seminary conferred the degree Master of Sacred Theology upon Rev. George P. Lawless, O.S.A., Chairman of the Department of Religious Studies at Merrimack College.

Fr. Lawless assumed his post as chairman in September of last year.

A graduate of Villanova University, he has earned a Master's degree in Latin at the Catholic University in the District of Columbia, and a Master's degree in Classical Studies from the University of Pennsylvania.

Before coming to Merrimack, Fr. Lawless served as an instructor in Latin at Augustinian Academy, Staten Island, N.Y. He then spent 12 years at Villanova University as an assistant professor of classics. For four years he acted as dean of University College and director of the summer session. Prior to coming to Merrimack he served as an assistant Chaplain to undergraduate students at Villanova.

His graduate studies at Princeton concentrated upon Ecumenics and Ethics. On May 18 he was the first Roman Catholic priest to preach at the Weaver Chapel of Wittenberg University and the Hama School of Theology in Springfield, Ohio. He is likewise the first Roman Catholic priest to address members of the John Knox Presbytery in San Antonio, Texas. He has recently contributed two chapters to a book, The Word of God Is Not Bound, edited by S. T. Kimbrough, Jr., assistant professor of Old Testament at Princeton Theological Seminary.
